How to Get Five Apple Rating on VIPKid

In the VIPKid world, many teachers debate about whether or not to ask for parent feedback. While it's ultimately up to your comfort level and relationship with your students & parents, we have a few respectful, effective ways to encourage parents to leave you five apple ratings.

- [ ] Encourage feedback in a welcome slide.
  - [ ] Try something like: "Class will begin soon! Your kind feedback and apples are appreciated!"
- [ ] Ask for a five apple rating at the end of your feedback.
- [ ] Ask parents to answer a specific question by leaving feedback.
  - [ ] Are there any specific things that the child would like for their reward?
  - [ ] How can I better engage with your child in class?
  - [ ] What are your child's hobbies?
- [ ] Teach like parents are watching (sometimes they are).
  - [ ] Be energetic and encouraging.
  - [ ] Get through all your course material.
  - [ ] Give constructive feedback during class (gently).
  - [ ] Give motivational feedback that tells the parents what their child is excelling at.
- [ ] Tell parents that VIPKid may reward teachers with a high amount of parent feedback. This may incentivize them to leave you a review.
- [ ] Teach high-quality classes and make connections with the student.
- [ ] Continue to ask for five apple ratings and feedback from parents, even if they've already given you feedback for another class.
- [ ] Use a feedback tool like FeedbackPanda to quickly write awesome feedback and improve response rates.
