1. Technology Workers in the United States: If you are an H-1B tech worker in the U.S. who is unable to get an H-1B visa or a Green Card, or if your family is not eligible to work or study in America, Canada wants skilled and educated tech workers!
2. Student Visa: Canada wants Indian graduate students! In order to study in Canada, international students usually require a Study Permit.
3. Express Entry - Federal Skilled Worker (FSW): Canada's skilled-worker immigration application system to attract high-skilled foreign workers and former international students who want to live in Canada permanently.
4. Open A Business - Entrepreneur and Start-Up Visa: The Canadian government wants entrepreneur immigrants to help strengthen the economy and create jobs for Canadians.
5. Global Skills Program: Indians with a STEM background may qualify for Canada's Global Talent Stream (GTS) with priority processing and a target of two-weeks to obtain Work Permits.
6. Intra-Company Transfers: An employee who is currently working for a company moves temporarily to a different country while they continue to work for the same company.
7. The Provincial Nominee Program (PNP): Each province or territory in Canada has its own specific need for skilled foreign workers, and immigration opportunities and procedures.
